FOREWORD

EVERY Annual should have a central theme around which it may be developed. For this year's book we have chosen as its central theme a subject with which all students of Deerfield-Shields are familiar: the Greek murals in the auditorium. We have tried to present the most striking of the ideas contained in the murals through the art of this book.

GRADUATE TOURS BRITISH POSSESSIONS

Returned from an extended tour of the British possessions, Alice Stupple gives news of Deerfield graduates whom she met.

"I found Jack Williams in a small village on Christmas Island teaching the inhabitants to play the banjo. Competition was keen between him and Ed Bleimehl, who was giving lessons in golf.

"I met Virgie Lee Cross and Mary Will Riley in Sarawak, Borneo. They were bored with Paris and had fled here for a short respite.

"My greatest surprise, however, was to find Elmer Koon in South Africa conducting experiments to heighten the pygmies. A few miles further inland I discovered James Cuffy devoting his life to the furthering of the use of match-box radios among the natives.

"On my return to Worchestershire I got into a mix-up with Marion Garling and Teresa Dunn on the relative value of Spanish onions in a mint julep."

Louis Werhane, representing Bok's Corners, is leading in the International Marathon now being held at the Zahn Coliseum. Kenneth Wessling, of Hoboken, is a close second, with Frank Wagner a lagging ninth.

The promising Stewart Brothers team is going strong, the elder reading history while in action. Paul Stope, who critic Chester Siver said would bid for first place, is now far back in the ranks.

Last evening being dedicated to visiting notables, the Honorable John Neal, Congressman - at - Large, Wynn Petersen, and Edward Pitt, occupied the box of honor. Lloyd Moon and Henry Philipp, joint promotors, announced last night that the leaders had covered twenty miles since the beginning, five days ago.

ORGANIZE NEW SPORT

Coach Zanier of the Max Suess Institute of Fine Arts predicts a championship 40 and 8 team for the new sport of McClure (pronounced Mack Lure), which is more or less a hit or miss pastime. Harold Appleton is Captain of the team and Walter Griswold is manager.

Alice Anderson, Gladys Belcher and Julia Frisbie, headed by Josephine Hildreth, have organized a First Aid Corps to soothe and bandage disturbed and bruised players.

CONDUCT CLEAN-UP WEEK

Police Commissioner Thomas Jordan conducted a city-wide clean-up last week-end, the 4,968th since 1929. His work is highly commended by Mayor Donald Vaughn, whose administration is pledged to make our city cleaner and quieter.

Commissioner Jordan was assisted by Sergeants Thayer Batt, Austen Fitzgerald, Victor Glader, Robert Knox, Vittro Lenzi, and Richard Wagner, all members of his six-foot squad. Under their direction the sweeping raid was made. The most desperate gang rounded up was the "Dick" Hawkins gang, who have lately been extremely annoying by frequently ringing the village fire bell. His henchmen, John Harfst, Harold Lundell, William Chambers, and Ferdinand Borchardt, have added to the disturbances by going around town hollering, "Whoopie," a voix haut, as it were.

Policewomen Dorothy Becker, Jean McLachlan, Lois Clark, and Gertrude Walters, whose advantageous tactics are well known, did very efficient work in rounding up several troublesome women: Elizabeth Flinn, Elizabeth Sleeman, Felicia Rogalski, Catherine Preston, and Mary Louise McClernan, who have been very annoying by misusing their vocal apparatus around premises where musical entertainment was being presented by Grace Niebuhr, the most prominent woman impressario of of today.

Appreciation of the work has been expressed by the local chapter of the Virginia Jerome "Purity League" through its president, Bonita Friebele, first vice president Clara Broms, and second ditto Eslie Jewel.

"Future raids will help clamp the lid on our city," thirteenth assistant to the Police Commissioner, Joseph Condon, said.

FIGHT FOR OLD CROWN

Promotor John Geraghty announces a championship heavyweight match for the Jack Dempsey crown which has been lying on a pillow for the past seventeen years.

The aspirants to the crown are Keith (Pug) Grant and Joseph McClory. The bout will take place at the Ethel Skidmore Park, erected in honor of this great modern woman athlete. It is rumored that Joseph Schoenthal will be referee, with George Schwalbach as alternate. Lester Nick is named alternate for Grant and George Lake for McClory.

DRAMA, ART AND MUSIC

Miss Clover Benson, lately returned from a European tour, gave a lecture on "Wood Carving in Peoria," under the auspices of the Saul Club.

Katherine Buhrer and Harriette Golden danced at the recent recital given by Barbara Shipnes. Roger Balke, of world-wide fame as a pianist, obliged by several numbers of his own composition.

Kathryn Sharpe is exhibiting a number of paintings during the week of the 16th to 22nd at the E. & C. Neuman Art Galleries.

NOTES BY COURT REPORTER FANNY KERR.

Presiding Judge, Robert Hall, was greatly incensed against Raymond Behrens, who was charged by Melvin Archer with having given gum in public to minors.

Miss Jean Coxe is seeking a judgment of $10,000 against Alice Fulkerson for copying her new modeling of putting up hair.

William Gifford, ambassador to France, is seeking a court order to force the government to pay him nine years' back pay. Judge Hammond ordered a recess while all concerned went to see the Army-Navy game.

James Hood, court marshal, had to quiet a disturbance created by Fred Jackson and Edgar Jenkins with a Night Club.

William Hunter is sueing Henry Johnson for selling him bad ducks.

THE SPORT WORLD

Pearl Swanton has been acclaimed winner of the international cross-Atlantic swim held this week. Her time is 3 days and 2 seconds. Louise Wolak came in second, with a time of 3½ days, while Ruth Walbridge came in third, three seconds behind Miss Wolak.

Annie Smigoski, who won the title of "The Girl Athlete" when in high school, will meet Mary Welsh in the first women's boxing match. The event will take place on next Thursday night. A crowd of 75,000 people is expected.

Edith Hansen and Mildred Zimmer have been awarded Royal portable typewriters as prizes for the all-National contest held here lately.

Lillian Chegwidden and Mathilda Borchardt have organized a class for the study of classical dancing, which will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Ada Thomas will accompany on the piano.

Dorothy Wink has been acclaimed champion tiddledy-winks player of the district.

Eleanor Keller has announced her intention of giving up her social position and devoting her energies to the furthering of her hot-dog industry in Patagonia. Tanis Greer and Faith Kuhlman are her partners in this stupendous enterprise.

William McCrory, orator of note, is to give an illustrated lecture at the Irving Club on "The Trend of Modern Youth."

Sticko, R. I., June 3. — Anna Yohannan has been elected Lord High Yodler of the Sticko International Yodellers Club. The only other officer elected at this time was Victor Linderholm, who is the new Grand Mogul. William Heaney and Evelyn Johnson will retain their positions as Royal Mace Bearer and Chief Scribbler respectively.

Margaret Kuehne, Emily Lichtwalt, and Carolyn Saathoff were last seen headed north for an Arctic stroll. They expect to be gone about three weeks.

FOOTBALL

When the team lines up next season there will be seven of this year's fourteen lettermen missing from the line-up. Those who graduate in June are Koon, Wessling, Neal, McClure, and Hammond.

Captain-Elect Seyfarth was the steadiest and most reliable ball carrier on the team, and he was also able to punt for good distances beside being able to pass well. "Sy" should go great in '29.

The responsibility of calling the signals was divided between Gifford and O'Connor, and those two took care of it well. Gifford was an extremely heady leader and showed real judgment in his choice of plays. O'Connor did his job very well, and although he was light his fight balanced his lack of weight. Watch "Ritchy" out there next year.

"Bill" Hammond, who divided his time between one of the halfback posts and an end position, was equally skilled at either place. Bill's shoes will be hard to fill.

"Tommy" Rogan was somewhat of a find last season, and his sweeping end runs were worth many precious yards. He did practically all the punting, and his passes were good for lots of yardage.

At the fullback position were seen Berube and Worthington, and they certainly made it tough for opposing forwards when they ripped through the line. Berube has had a jinx in the form of injuries all through his three years, but in spite of his tough luck he has shown great ability. Berube has another year to play. Worthington, one of the hardest workers on the team, has three years left to play.

Flanking the line were Wessling and Koon. Wessling had speed to burn, and he played smart football throughout the season. "Zup" will be missed. Koon was an aggressive man and played a very steady game. Coach would undoubtedly feel better if "Zup" and Elmer were returning.

A stone wall at tackle was John Geraghty, who has played great football for three seasons. "Mick" didn't allow many plays to go through his position, and his spirit was a great influence upon the team. Geraghty's absence will undoubtedly leave a large gap in the foreward wall. "Moon" Stipe, who held down the other tackle post, played faultless football, and he should be an important cog in next season's machine.

Probably the smartest and scrappiest man on the team was "Knute" Neal. He was in on every play and was never "out" until the final whistle. Don McClure made a fine running mate to Neal and did everything expected of a good guard. He was somewhat handicapped by injuries but this made no different to Don. He was "there." Carrol, understudy to "Knute" and Don, was a handy man to have around. "Paddy" should be quite a guard for '29.

The managers were McKillip and Grant. Much credit should be given to Grant and McKillip for the efficient manner in which they performed the managerial duties.

The Nurse

Among those duties which come in for a good part of Miss Lasswell's time is that of taking care of the so-called minor cases which come in to the hospital each period. These consist mainly of cuts, sprains, headaches, etc., which might become serious if not promptly attended to.

The influenza epidemic, which reached its peak in December, kept her busy, for it was then especially needful that any student with the least sign of a cold should be immediately sent home.

Each day there is a long list of absentees to be checked. At the opening of the fall term each student is given a thorough physical examination, and although the doctors do much of the work, our nurse has a good deal of the responsibility.

CLUCK FROM PUCK

LOOKING OVER THE PAST YEAR

Yes, we got our report cards too, but we refuse to commit ourselves, except to say that it took us the whole of four days to figure out a method of approach to the parents and break the sad news. And then they signed it without looking at it!

—Puck

The Chicago Evening Post comes out with the fact that a woman, 81 years old, has just been given a diploma from Senn high school. At the rate most of us have been flunking exams lately, it will take us longer than that.

FLASH LIGHTS

All day long rain had poured from the leaden skies—icy blasts whistled 'round the eaves—and the frost, creeping forth at night from its dark hiding place, laid on the world its hoary finger, leaving frozen fields and cataracts and ghostly trees looming through the darkness.

Then the sun, piercing its way through the gray murk, found at dawn a world of sparkling beauty wrapped in garments of white.

—Flash

SPLASHY SPLASHES SPLASH

Oh, the splashes that come in the spring
Are very unpleasant to sing.
You stand on the sidewalk, and by goes a car;
And you look as if fished from a cauldron of tar;
And your collar is black and your coat is a fright,
And a squirt in the eye has deprived you of sight.
You open your mouth to protest such a splash
And it's filled as another car goes speeding past.
Which makes it so very much harder to sing
Of the splashes that splatter us in the spring.

—Ruth

As we look about us on this sea of bright and smiling faces—each one showing its owner's eagerness to pitch in again—we notice a startling change which has descended on our male members—four out of five have learned to wiggle their ears.

Believe it or not—we have a mascot.

It's a cute little thing, running around and yelping at our heels—and always offering advice on how to run the Shoreline in general and the Column in particular. And it has a great affinity for cream puffs.

It's name is Lil.

—Puck

Now is that nice? I ask you

IN LATIN

Seated one day in Latin,
I was weary and wanted to stop;
And my pen point wandered idly,
Over my desk's smooth top.
I knew not what I was writing,
Nor of whom I was thinking then—
But I heard a voice in the distance,
Like the sound of a great Amen!
The folds of time quickly unraveled—
A sound from the far off repeated—
"Come!"
And I walked slowly up to the desk
And got rid of two sticks of gum!

—Mickey

THESE JUNIORS ARE GETTING BOLD

Dear Puck:

Here is something for the seniors to laugh off: Conceit, like every other seat, must be sat on.

—A Junior

We can remember when we were scared little mid-semester freshmen, too. Someone told us to take the elevator to the sixth floor to find the lunchroom. Everyone we asked where the elevator was told us something different. We decided that it was out of order, anyway, so we walked up. We ended up in the attic of Shields and were walking around sort-of bewildered-like, when a lot of big upper classmen walked in. We were so scared that Mr. Dinkeloo had to pull us out from under the piano!

THINGS WE HAVE LEARNED IN ECONOMICS

1. Flipping paper balls may break a pencil.
2. Marginal utility is something you just can't help.
3. There are too many definitions for anyone's comfort.

—Th' Villun

FLASH LIGHTS

Each day, long after the students have wended homeward, a trio of pigeons sail down into the quad on gracefully poised wing—skim the weather-stained fountain, and mount to the fire-escape above the office windows, where they mock their reflections in the panes of glass. Then, as the last rays of the setting sun touch the walls of the East building, they fly away over the tree-tops, their day accomplished.

—Flash

THIS SHOULD GO IN "HIT OR MISS"

Jack and Jill, the flying-rings artists, will now sing that little ditty, "Some of These Day's You're Gonna Miss Me Honey."

—Violent Ray

BLUEY INK

Why should mother dear object
When I spot my new white dress
With ink?
It makes the prettiest
Bluey dots
To interest one in History class.
And Lincoln never did care
How he was dressed—
Or Jackson,—
So teacher says.
So why should I?
I like bluey spots.

—Suzie

TO WIND AND CLOUD

A roaring above as of ocean waves
And wind-swept skies in a deepening dark—
These I approach
And long to be a part.

A tiny twig that bows aloft
And prays the grace to kiss its mate—
Ah, only once
Let me play fate.

A scuttling cloud that races far
And weaves a path of bright desire—
Let me but help
For fear it tire.

I have no place among these ones of happiness,
Never mine to know their joy.
I am of the earth and things of dross;
My soul is crushed.
I hope no more.

—Cloister

SWEET AD-E-LINE!

Thoughts while sitting in a mud puddle—
(X & $ * ! ⅞*).

Betty—"If three sisters of one family should marry three brothers of another family, what would be their relationship to each other?"

Mr. Wright (in very much of a hurry, as usual)—"I'm afraid they'd be very much related. Goodbye. Call again."

—Doddy

We have discovered a horribly awful discovery. Hurrying to class the other morning, with a minute and three flights of stairs to go, we were suddenly confronted with a most horror striking apparition. There, directly in front of us, and coming straight for us, was a freshman—tall, and dark, and handsome—but Oh!—with his locker key hanging from a string about his neck! Our illusions are shattered. Bring on the hemlock cup.

—Puck

Play, fool, and be merry. For next six weeks we flunk again.

THE BETTER WAY

A great many young people go along from day to day, week to week, month to month, and year to year, always intending to save some money but never getting started. Or if they do get started, they see something they want and away go their good intentions and their money.

To these young folks we would say that there is a "better way" and the road is plainly marked: ECONOMY. It is not a hard road but like all worthwhile accomplishments it requires determination. Dig deep down inside yourself, strike the bed rock of your will power, and resolve to save regularly and DO IT. Then you will be happier than you ever were. Try it.

EVANSTON SHOP

$45 – $50

YOUNG Men entering University or Business in Fall will discover that good clothes are an important factor in success. Charter House has executed for these young men an illustrious and gallant line of Suits and Topcoats that embrace the finest style traditions of universities both here and abroad. An early inspection would prove exceedingly profitable and pleasant.

PIGTAIL DAY

Min Collins had an elephant
  She brought one day to school;
It made Tom Jordan stop and stare
  To see the little fool! (The elephant.)

The brute first went to history class—
  And how the boys did shout—
But 'cause the girlies talked and laughed
  Dear Percy kicked him out.

Next he went into the lab—
  My story's sad indeed—
Somebody stole the el'phant's tail,
  Of which he's sore in need.

And when the girlies went to lunch
  You should have seen his face—
Alone—with not a thing to eat—
  But acids and a base.

And after lunch Mike Huber
  Made him take her for a ride—
With such a load upon his back,
  No wonder that he cried.

And one of his four wheels came off
  His trunk was badly bent—
And where Mike stuck her knees in him—
  We find a little dent.

Oh elephants weren't made for this—
  They should be in the zoo—
We buried what of him was left—
  What else was there to do?

Why Mr. Wright can't wink one eye without wink'ng the other?

Why Miss Comer always looks so happy? We wonder??

If Coach Peel is as much of a brute as he appears?

Why Mr. Burwell never went in the movies?

Why, when Percy does admire a woman, she's always a "right smaht dame"?

Sonia McConnell (in Economics): I asked you when I could make up the test and you snapped me up so—I crawled under the table.

P. W. Slocum: You didn't stay there very long, d'd you?

Gris (after trying for ten minutes to get someone to say 1892 in French): How many lessons have you had on dates?

Mr. Wolters (in assembly): Warren Brownlee found that he could say one word in .7 of a second. Of course, some of you girls could do better—but—

That has sheltered us these four years past—
Oh Father of Understanding
Who has nurtured the seed of wisdom
Within the minds of thy children—
We bow down to Thee with thanks
As we march from thy doors.
The Wisdom of Pythagoras,
The Power of Washington
The Feeling of Milton
And the Beauty of Shelley
Thou hast given us—
And we have accepted.
But more than that—Oh School!
Thou hast taught us the first lesson
For the new universe to which we pass:
To use discrimination
In all things.
Our new world is very large
Compared to thee—
It has no bounds.
The earth and sea are ours,
And they are infinite.
And we are very small.
But—as every star in the heavens
Completes the beauty of God's garden—
So must each human being
Give his service, wisdom, and ideals,
To the School of Life.
If we have learned to choose,
And select well—
To be honest
When others shield the truth—
To give sympathy
When we should like to ask it—
To find a King in the crowd
That is made up of beggars—
If we have the faith to uphold our ideals
Though they be scorned by the mob—
Then—are we ready to leave thy halls.
If we have this one lesson from thee—
Learned so it never shall be forgotten—
We owe thee a debt which never can be repaid.
Thou hast lit the portals to the Cathedral of Life.
And we pass from thee—
Humble,
And with thanksgiving.
